

Want to be Featured on Monday Morning Indie?

1. You must be an Indie Author or be published by a very small press (or a consortium of authors) requiring you to do all your marketing. Connie will check and decide if you qualify.
2. Be willing to send a Kindle, Nook, or paperback version of your book to be featured.

Connie will not read: horror, erotica, or any book dealing with suicide. She will also no longer read adult fantasy with monsters, orks, etc. . . . Just a warning, she does not like Middle grade and YA fiction dealing with girls and their friend/boyfriend problems. If you send one of these it better be VERY GOOD!

Books have to be well-written and compelling enough to be remembered in order to earn five stars. If your book review is under three stars, Connie will email you the review, but will not post an interview or the review to any website.

While reading your book, if Connie notices a large number of typos/mistakes, she will not review your book. She may send you an email about the problems. She is not trying to be the “grammar police,” but simply refuses to review books that have not been edited properly as they reflect poorly on self-published works.

3. Once your book has been read and reviewed, she will email you with a date for the feature. Before your interview is to be posted, Connie will send you the interview questions.

Email Connie Huddleston at connie@interpretingtimespast.com to get started!

Connie will post her reviews on Amazon, Bookbub, and Goodreads. She will add a buy link to your interview along with any contact info or social media you wish to include. She will tweet and post to Facebook about the interview. Children’s book authors will be posted on C.M. Huddleston Author on Facebook (<https://www.facebook.com/C.M.HuddlestonAuthor/>) and Adult book authors will be posted on Connie M. Huddleston on Facebook (<https://www.facebook.com/ConnieMHuddlestonauthor/>).

What you can do is like Connie’s Facebook pages, join her on Twitter (@MM_Indie) and sign up for her newsletter. Additionally, she would love an honest review of one of her books! She’ll even send you a mobi or epub copy upon request.
